

YOUR FUNDRAISING GUIDE

Everything you need to know to raise vital funds for native species, rewilding, and the animals in our parks!

YOU ARE A WILDWOOD HERO!

THANK YOU FOR CHOOSING TO SUPPORT WILDWOOD.

We believe in a world where Britain's native species thrive. Your support will help turn this vision into a reality, raising vital funds to protect, conserve, and rewild native British species. At a time when so many feel the weight of eco-anxiety, your support shines as a reason for us all to celebrate, showing friends, family, and communities that together, we can restore nature.

Your fundraising journey will be unique, but we'll be here to support you every step of the way. Remember you can call or email us and we'll guide you on everything from choosing your fundraising idea, to the practicalities of collecting donations. Inside this pack, you'll find simple guides, inspiring stories, and practical tips to help you get started.

The urgent need for your support couldn't be clearer. Our wildlife is in crisis. The UK is one of the most nature-depleted countries in the world – one in six of our species is under threat of extinction. But it's not too late. With your support, we can bring the wild back.

From all of us at Wildwood, thank you. Remember, every effort counts. Whatever you raise, however you choose to do it, your kindness makes a difference. You really are a Wildwood Hero.

With thanks,

Paul Whitfield
Director General

GET INSPIRED REAL STORIES, REAL IMPACT

We're always blown away seeing all the impressive and kind ways people fundraise for Wildwood! Here are a few stories to inspire you to start your own.

FREYA

Freya became a Wildwood Hero with help from her friends by setting up a fundraising stall at her school! She reached out to organisations for donated items and took on the big challenge of running a busy stall and chatting with the public. In one evening, she raised an incredible £150 for Wildwood. Freya cares deeply about protecting animals and her hard work and passion show just how much of a difference one young fundraiser can make. She's proud of what she achieved, and so are we!

ARMAN & CHLOE

Arman and Chloe became Wildwood Heroes by completing an impressive 10km sponsored walk to celebrate Chloe's 21st birthday! They raised an amazing £70 for Wildwood.

“My friends and I went to Wildwood for the first time ever, the previous year, a night tour to celebrate my 20th birthday. We absolutely loved the place, the animals and the conservation projects happening. We wanted to show our support to the charity by visiting on our days off from university. Then we saw the fundraiser to Walk On The Wildside, and as my friend Chloe is an avid hiker, we figured it would be a great way to celebrate her 21st birthday.”

My Top Tip:

“My top tip for asking for donations is to ask friends and family. Even if it's a small amount, it all adds up... And if you're ever afraid to ask, just remember, it's for a great cause!”

ARABELLA

Arabella became a Wildwood Hero by completing an 8km run to earn her Brownie charity badge. At just eight years old, she showed incredible dedication and raised £178 to help protect and care for British wildlife. Well done Arabella!

“ The whole experience, of training and researching what you do for our local wildlife and completing such a big run has made me feel very proud. I hope it will help make a small difference. ”

CATHY

Cathy became a Wildwood Hero by taking on the incredible challenge of climbing Ben Nevis! She raised an amazing £2,123 to support British wildlife. She threw herself into training, fundraising, and even got creative - selling homemade treats, pre-loved clothes, and rallying friends and family to support the cause she loves.

“ I love Wildwood, both the park and the work you're doing for wildlife. ”

Cathy's Top Tip:

“The fact that the challenge was organised by an external company made it all the more appealing as I didn't have to bother with any of the logistics, and it was fun to do it as a group as opposed to on my own.”

WHAT WE DO AT WILDWOOD

Wildwood is more than a wildlife park – we're a native species conservation charity. We rewild British wildlife to restore what's missing from our ecosystems. But without funding, this vital work can't continue. That's why we need passionate fundraisers like you!

RESTORING MISSING SPECIES

Over the years, Wildwood has built an impressive portfolio of hands-on conservation projects. We've brought water voles back to Surrey, rewilded more than 1,000 hazel dormice, reintroduced beavers to restore wetlands, and much more. All this, alongside years of research and wildlife monitoring.

RECOVERING ECOSYSTEMS

Rewilding through the reintroduction of keystone species is one of our most powerful tools. Keystone species restore natural processes and habitats, transforming the landscape, and allowing countless other species to recover alongside them. Bringing these animals back restores large-scale ecosystems so they can become self-sustaining and resilient.

CONSERVATION STORIES

THE BLEAN BISON: A FLAGSHIP WILDING PROJECT

The award-winning Blean Bison Project has a bold vision: bringing nature back by bringing European bison to Britain. In 2022, Wildwood alongside the Kent Wildlife Trust released the herd into the Blean woodland - the first free-roaming bison in UK woodlands for thousands of years.

These gentle giants are ecosystem engineers. As they graze and push through the trees, they open space for a wider variety of plant species to grow, and create habitats for wildlife like woodpeckers, bats, and fungi.

SAVING THE CHOUGH: RED-BILLED CHOUGH BACK AFTER 200 YEARS

After more than 200 years missing from Kent, red-billed chough are once again flying over the White Cliffs. Since 2023, we've been rewilding captive-bred choughs around Dover and the White Cliffs, supported by decades of chalk grassland restoration through conservation grazing.

In 2025, our first wild-born fledgling proved the birds are finding suitable habitat, pairing, and raising young. It's powerful evidence that these restored coastal landscapes can once again support chough, and a hopeful sign that the wider ecosystem is returning to life.

EDUCATION THAT PROTECTS WILDLIFE

Education is at the heart of everything Wildwood does. Through our pioneering rewilding and native species restoration projects, our visitors can learn about British wildlife, igniting a passion for conservation, and motivating a sense of responsibility to protect our native species. By fundraising for Wildwood, you are helping us train and educate the next generation of conservationists.

LEARNING OUTSIDE THE CLASSROOM

Our education programmes inspire a love of British wildlife in students and show the difference people can make for conservation. From Scouts and school groups to community learners, we help people discover the natural world around them and understand how they can protect native species. With your support, all of this work becomes possible.

SHARING EXPERTISE & AMPLIFYING IMPACT

We also act as a training centre for ecologists, upskilling other conservation groups by sharing our expert knowledge on subjects as diverse as harvest mouse surveying, to water vole handling - ensuring that conservation knowledge spreads further and has an even greater impact.

OUR PARKS: A HOME FOR NATIVE WILDLIFE

Your fundraising for Wildwood helps care for hundreds of animals at our parks, including our rescued brown bears. Focusing on native species, we connect visitors with the extraordinary natural world.

RESCUING FLUFF & SCRUFF

Brothers Fluff and Scruff were the first bears to make Wildwood their home. Rescued in November 2014 from a disused bear hunting facility in Bulgaria, they were underweight and traumatised after fifteen years in barren concrete pits. Thanks to our incredible supporters, they travelled 1,600 miles to a new woodland home in Kent, where under Wildwood's expert care they healed and grew strong.

RESCUING MALENKY & NANUQ

In 2025, brown bear cubs Malenky and Nanuq urgently needed help. Their mother, a survivor of the conflict in Ukraine, had endured weeks of bombing. Rescuers finally reached her and moved her to Poland. With most emergency shelters quickly filling up, she was moved between different zoos before being brought to safety in temporary accommodation in Belgium. Against all odds, she gave birth to the twins. Thanks to public support, Wildwood brought the cubs to our Devon park, giving them a safe, enriched environment and a loving forever home.

THE DIFFERENCE
YOU

£50

Raise £50 and you could provide a week's nourishing food for one of our wildcat kittens, bred as part of our wildcat rewilding project. You'd be helping this rare native cat grow big enough to one day be released to the wild, where wildcats are fighting against extinction.

£100

Raise £100 and you could provide vital enrichment for our rescued bears, encouraging natural behaviours, and helping them live happier, more fulfilled lives in our care. Our bears has such a rough start to life before coming to Wildwood, we think they deserve as much love as we can give them.

£500

Raise £500 and you could fund essential veterinary treatment to rehabilitate a rescued beaver at Wildwood. You'd be giving them a second chance at life, before they are safely released back into the wild, ready for a future shaping wetlands, building dams, and bringing life back to whole ecosystems.

£1000

Raise £1,000 and you could provide specialist tracking equipment for our red-billed choughs after release, helping us monitor them as they return to the Kentish coast and raise the next wild generation.

£2000

Raise £2,000 and you could help cover the cost of transporting Wildwood bison to be released at rewilding projects across the UK, where they will play a vital role in restoring habitats – reshaping forests and creating space for countless other species to thrive - as powerful ecosystem engineers.
